Gunmen Show No Emotion. Like Becker, the gunmen heard the erdict pronounced against them with-out show of emotion. They stood at he har looking straight ahead as the foreman of the jury rose to make known the result of its deliberations, and they continued to stare stolcally in front of them until the formalities of the proceedings were concluded. Remanded to their cells until tomorrow, when Justice Goff will fix the day for imposing sentence, they turned and filed out of court with as firm a step as when they had entered, "Whitey" Lewis—he who was the most dramatic of the four when he testified on the witness stand—alone walked with head bowed.

"Lefty Louie's" Wife Affected. As they entered the door leading over the bridge of sighs, "Gyp" said something to "Lefty" in a sullen un-dertone which none could hear, Out-side "Lefty's" doll-faced wife, "Lefty's Lillie," as she was called, wept on the shoulder of her husband's father, who has immediate charge of the government's investigation, attended the conference, Much valuable information as to the real situation is said to have been laid before the courtroom to the waiting crowds outside. dissembled in order to gain time.
"That's not dynamite," he said, con-temptuously, "somebody cheated you." "Light it and see," said Davis. Randall lighted a piece of the "giant with a match. It burned briskly and those who had hitherto clung to the idea made a hasty exit.

Detectives Resort to Strategy. After Davis had held complete po ression of the station for nearly hour and a half, a plan was devised by the detectives to trap him.

While Secretary Snively carried on the conversation with the manine De-tective Hosic tiptoed from the outer room which was at Davis' back and struck him on the head with a "black-

The infernal machine dropped and Detective Browne, who was at Hosic elbow, grabbed it.

Davis reached in his coat pocket and Hoste hit him again and he tumbled to the floor unconscious. The bettle of nitro glycerine and the revolver were in Davis' inside coat pocket ,towards which he had reached.

Gibson, the New lawyer accused of murdering Szabo, his client. This witness, Emma Benninger of Paterson, N who appeared in the case today for the first time, trained her open stances on Gibson as he was struggling in the water half a mile or less off shore and saw the tragedy in part through the lenses. Her testimony was apparent by intended to controvert the line of defense set up by Otheon at the preminary hearing in his case.

"I heard Mr. Gibson shout." Mrs.
Benninger said, "and from my perch, where I was sixting, I could make out that he was overboard. The boat was drifting slowly, right side up. I could
